

Places to Donate Your General and Judaica Books

Recommended by Chicago-area synagogue, public, and school librarians

NOTE: Books for BJBE's library books are purchased by librarian and volunteer Shelley Riskin from Follett Resources. They are new and arrive already cataloged, needing minimal processing. Here are places that would welcome your books. Questions? Email or call Shelley: 847-724-7418

BJBE Sisterhood Resale

Contact the Sisterhood Resale Chair and ask about bringing your books for resale, which benefits BJBE programs.

Open Books

Open Books sells used books in its two shops to fund an array of literacy programs. They have a number of drop-off locations, including Northbrook, and will pick up larger donations."

Evanston Public Library

"Evanston earns extra funds for our collections from used books donated for our book sale, and we also give away about 10,000 books a year to deposit collections in train stations, community centers etc. For organizations with a lot of books, I strongly recommend Better World Books and Thrift Books. Both sell used books online but also contribute to literacy programs worldwide. BWB is particularly good for selling and buying used textbooks."

Better World Books

Thrift Books

Joan Dachs Bais Yaakov School

Joan Dachs Bais Yaakov has no library fund and always looking for (appropriate) books. Contact info, according to the JUF Guide:
3200 W. Peterson Ave.
jdbyoffice@jdbyytt.org 773-583-5329

Additional Suggestions

Northbrook Public Library Book Donation Recommendations